Happy Memorial Day!

I hope that you are enjoying the long weekend and have a chance to see some friends and family, although not as closely as we are used to!

We are entering our final two weeks of classes and we have some good news about the opening of churches beginning next Saturday for the Pentecost vigil. I am sure that your pastors will publish some of the details for services, if they have not already.

For Holy Name School, this means that we can tentatively plan for a graduation ceremony for our 8th grade, which is fantastic news! (I will send a message to the 8th grade families early this week about planning).

I will publish a schedule this week for all students to come by school to pick up belongings and summer packets during the week of June 8th.

As we push towards June 5th and the conclusion of our year, keep up the great effort. If you are in a situation where you have a substantial amount of work incomplete, please get organized and get it finished by June 5th. During the week of the 8th, you can also continue to finish incomplete work. (I will be sending parents a list of students this week who still need to complete work and encourage parents and students to reach out to their teachers early this week to be sure that they know what they need to finish, if there is any confusion.)

Just a reminder to 8th grade students who have not completed a profile and submitted a photo, please do so as soon as possible.

Please continue to pray to Our Mother Mary during this month, for strength and health for our school community, our local communities and state, and for the welfare of all throughout the world, that we can defeat this pandemic and begin our lives again, as close and caring members of Christ's family.

Enjoy the day tomorrow and have a great week ahead!

God Bless,

David J Flanagan
